Deny Abel-Powers Swap Is Planned

NEW YORK (AP)—A report here that negotiations are nearing completion to swap Soviet spy Col. Rudolf Abel for U-2 spy plane pilot Francis Gary Powers was denied Friday by a State Department spokesman in Washington.

Lincoln White, State Department press officer, said, "There is no foundation to the story that we are negotiating an exchange for Col. Rudolf Abel for Francis Gary Powers."

The New York World-Telegram and Sun reported the negotiations in progress and nearing completion. Oliver W. Powers, father of the American who was downed over the U.S.S.R. May 1, 1960, first proposed such a trade a year ago. Powers was sentenced to 10 years and is now a prisoner in the Soviet Union.

Abel, accused by the government as a top Soviet intelligence agent, was convicted of espionage conspiracy in U.S. District Court here Nov. 15, 1957. He is serving a 30-year sentence at the federal prison in Atlanta.

The World-Telegram and Sun didn't state the source of its information.

Real Estate Values Up In 1960

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state Tax Equalization Board reported Friday that real estate market values increased by three per cent during 1960.

The total valuation of the state's real estate was placed at $34.3 billion for the year for the state's 2,244 school districts.

The market value of Monroe County rose from 1959 to 1960 from $145,499,100 to $151,902,600, while the assessed valuation of the County dropped.

The assessed valuation dropped from $64,318,395 to $64,030,360, which is 42.2 per cent of the assessed valuation to market value.

In 1959 the percentage of assessed valuation to market value was 44.2 per cent.

These figures are according to the Harrisburg tabulation. Market valuation is the key factor in the state's complicated formula for determining commonwealth school subsidies. The higher the market valuation, the lower the state aid.

The board reported that market values increased in all but 373 districts over 1959.

That result was expected to bring a critical reaction from the districts, which already stand to lose some $8 million in state school aid because of earlier market value increases.

The state's two largest cities both recorded increases in market valuation. Pittsburgh went up five per cent and Philadelphia increased slightly less than one per cent.

Miss Pocono Mountains Wins Fans But Not Title

SPECIAL TO DAILY RECORD

MISS Emma Jean Da-cy, representing the Pocono Mountains in the Miss Pennsylvania contest won plenty of admirers and friends at the beauty queen pageant Thursday but failed to win the coveted honor.

Miss Gayle Nelson, 19, of Chester, Pa., was selected the new Miss Pennsylvania. She will represent the Keystone State in Miami Beach, Fla., July 15 when the Miss Universe contest takes place.

The coronation ball and selection of Miss Pennsylvania was held Thursday night and yesterday at the Sheraton Hotel, Philadelphia. About 1,000 people attended the event.

There were 29 contestants in the pageant with three of the girls achieving top honors. Besides Miss Nelson, there was Val Poorst, "Miss Greater Philadelphia" who was second. In third place was Miss Dolores Rehner of Reading.

"Miss Dailey made a great impression," according to Mrs. Robert Miller, who was director of the Miss Pocono contest.

"People were warm and friendly to the Pocono delegation," she continued, "and all the girls in the pageant were gorgeous."

At one phase of the program, an admirer told Miss Dailey she was sorry that the Pocono entry had not won first place. Miss Dailey replied softly: "But I still won the Miss Pocono contest."

Miss Dailey, a graduate of Coolbaugh Township High School, gained the right to represent the Poconos by besting 14 other beauties in a pageant held at the Sherman Theater, Stroudsburg, last week.

She is currently enrolled in Churchman's Business School, Easton.

The 19-year-old Poconos representative is chaperoned by her mother, Mrs. Dailey, and Mrs. Robert Miller, Stroudsburg, who was director of last week's event.

Toured Philly Wednesday night and yesterday, Miss Dailey toured Philadelphia. She was the guest at three parties during her stay in the Quaker City.

"Miss Pocono Mountains" was officially crowned her area standard-bearer Wednesday night in pre-Pennsylvania title ceremonies.

The world-wide Miss Universe contest will be held at Miami Beach, Fla., July 15.

Besides winning a four-year senatorial scholarship, Miss Dailey has been invited to be a guest at the Miami event.

Settlement May Be Near

Deadlock Broken In Ship Strike

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK (AP)—The largest of striking seamen's unions reached tentative accord with shipowners Friday. The breakthrough in a complicated deadlock could open the way for quick settlement of a two-week national maritime strike.

There were a number of ticklish odds and ends to be cleared up, however, before the entire group of five striking unions could be brought into line. Thus there was no clear present indication of a return to sea of some 150 or more American ships, stranded in 30 port cities coast to coast.

The National Maritime Union, with 37,000 members, accepted a wage increase of slightly better than 10 per cent, spread over four years. In return, the NMU shelved for the time being the crucial issue of its right to organize runaway ships — American-owned vessels operated under foreign flags.

There was no immediate estimate of the cost of the settlement, presuming they eventually apply to all of more than 80,000 striking seamen. But it would run into the millions annually and, since most American merchant ships receive government subsidies, could cost the taxpayer a pretty penny.

The NMU made the settlement contingent on acceptance of the terms by two other striking unions, with which it is closely aligned, the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union, and the American Radio Association.

In addition, a government panel of fact-finders sought to bring about agreement between ship operators and the other two maritime unions involved, the International Seafarers Union and the Marine Engineers Union. These two have banded together more or less independently of the other group.

Over-all, the unions represent more than 80,000 seamen who man nearly 1,000 American vessels. However, about 800 of the ships have been riding out the strike at sea, subject to immobilization only if they put into port.

The unions struck June 15. The unions insisted that the problem of the runaway ships was the chief issue. They wanted concessions by the owners of their right to organize crews aboard such ships, where the wage scale and other conditions are below that of American merchant mariners.

The NMU's tentative agreement refers the issue to a government fact-finding group for study and eventual recommendations. About 450 American ships operate under foreign flags, with the federal government retaining a measure of control over them in the case of national emergency.

The proposed contract extends four years, and there is no reopening clause.

Holiday Toll May Hit 450

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The long Independence Day weekend began late Friday with millions of Americans either on the move or getting ready to go places.

The National Safety Council figured that almost all of the nation's 74 million motor vehicles will hit the streets and roads during the holiday period and will roll up a total of 10 billion miles of travel.

The council estimated that 450 Americans may lose their lives in traffic accidents and that 20,000 others may suffer injuries that disable them beyond the day of their accidents.

U.S. May Dispatch More Troops To Berlin Area

Report Kennedy Weighing Move

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may send some additional military forces to Europe later this summer in preparation for a possible showdown with the Soviet Union over West Berlin.

This is reported to be one of the measures under consideration in the Kennedy administration for dealing with the Berlin crisis. Officials expect tension over Berlin to become acute toward the end of the year.

The United States has five divisions in Germany as part of the West European defense force of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. President Kennedy wants to increase the conventional, non-nuclear ability of this force to meet any Communist attack and has urged the European allies to build up their own strength for that purpose.

Are In Favor
U.S. military authorities are reported to favor the dispatch of at least one more U.S. division to Europe. This would not only bolster NATO defensive power but in their view also would provide evidence for Khrushchev of the determination of the United States to fulfill its commitments to protect West Berlin.

A whole range of possible actions was discussed with President Kennedy Thursday by his top military and diplomatic officials during a meeting of the National Security Council.

Available information was that the President did not immediately make any firm decisions on steps to be taken in preparation for dealing with the Berlin situation. These are expected, however, in the next two or three weeks.

The National Security Council session resulted mainly in the assignment of specific aspects of the Berlin problem for further study and concrete planning by various administration leaders in the State and Defense departments and other government agencies.

Two Objectives
Top officials said the President is being guided in this planning by two objectives. One is to take all possible measures in cooperation with U.S. allies to meet further Soviet threats and pressures and possible aggressive actions in Berlin; the other is to keep open the possibility of a negotiated end to the crisis.

The range of actions Kennedy may order to prepare for a showdown is reported to include some increase in total U.S. military strength, including mobilization of National Guard divisions, a step-up in the draft rate and mobilization of reserve divisions.

No decisions have been made on any such steps, however, and some authorities think the possibility of calling up more divisions is at the moment secondary to the possibility of redeploying some of the 14 divisions which now make up the Army.

Drought Hits Heart Of U.S. Wheat Lands

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A few showers and some downgrading of the grasshopper threat offered slight encouragement to northern Great Plains farmers Friday, but most still waited for general rains.

Bismarck, N.D., in the heart of the drought area, got a cheering 1½ inches of rain overnight. Showers were fairly widespread in the Dakotas and some of Minnesota.

But the opinion was general that much more rain is needed if this important segment of the nation's breadbasket is to produce its normal quota of grain and meat.

Blame Soil Bank
Some ranchers in Montana blamed idle soil bank acreages for helping produce a massive onslaught of grasshoppers—regarded as the worst since the 1930s in Montana and Wyoming.

Gale Mast, South Dakota extension entomologist, said, however, that this year's "hopper infestation" won't hold a candle with the 1930s.

FBI Probing Pentagon On News Leak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House left open the possibility Friday that an FBI investigation of a security leak could lead to the prosecution of a high Pentagon official.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said that if FBI agents discover who leaked secret plans about Berlin to the press, it will be up to the Justice Department to decide whether to prosecute.

At the same time, Salinger acknowledged that the plans were military ones. Presumably, such contingency plans would be known only in the highest echelons of the Pentagon.

Newsmen asked Salinger if the FBI investigation had started because of the publication in Newsweek magazine of an article about mobilization plans to meet the threat over Berlin.

"It would be inaccurate to say the investigation is aimed at any one publication or any one reporter," Salinger replied.

Salinger would not say that President Kennedy himself had ordered the FBI investigation. The press secretary said "a number of people were involved" in launching it.

WALLOPS ISLAND, Va. (AP)—The United States Friday failed in an attempt to loft a "beer can satellite" into orbit for the most intensive study yet of tiny space bullets that could imperil manned space flights.

The third stage of a four-stage Scout launching rocket failed to ignite after the 61-foot, 36,600-pound rocket had made what appeared to be a perfect takeoff on its seaside launching pad.

NEW YORK (AP)—Henry Winston, one of the nation's top Communists, went free Friday after more than five years' imprisonment. President Kennedy commuted his federal sentence because he is blind and in ill health.

"I'm happy and surprised," said Winston, one of two remaining R-d bigwigs still imprisoned as a result of the 1949 Smith Act convictions.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy sought personally Friday to give lagging U.S.-Soviet disarmament talks a forward push by calling in the chief Soviet disarmament negotiators.

In a half-hour chat with Valerian A. Zorin, Kennedy stressed the importance the United States attaches to getting a disarmament accord.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The disbanded Tractors for Freedom Committee told Prime Minister Fidel Castro Friday it would not give him "$28 million or $28" in exchange for prisoners from the April 17 invasion of Cuba.

The answer was given to Castro's prisoner representatives in the committee's announcement it would not re-form to resume negotiations.

Survives Ship Wreck

Boy, 14, Rescued From Raft; 2 Die

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—An ocean fishing boat found and rescued a 14-year-old boy from a raft, 90 miles southwest of here Friday. He had lashed the bodies of two men companions to the raft.

Their fishing boat from Newport Beach, Calif., sank off Mexico Tuesday night.

The boy, Terry McClelland of Huntington Beach, Calif., was reported in shock. But he was in good enough condition to be transferred to a U.S. submarine, which happened to be in the area on maneuvers and headed to San Diego with him.

Radio reports and Huntington Beach relatives identified his dead companions as Russell Bradford, about 45, his step-grandfather, of Huntington Beach, and Al Hartman of Santa Ana, Calif.

The albacore fishing boat, Ruth Marie, sighted the raft in foggy weather. It took the boy aboard and recovered Hartman's body. Bradford's body slipped from the raft and disappeared. The Coast Guard began a search for it.

Transferred To Sub
The boy and Hartman's body were later transferred to the submarine USS Diodon.

Young McClelland recovered from shock long enough on the submarine to say that the small fishing boat, the cabin cruiser Tim-C broke up Tuesday night. The boy and the two men had started out that day from Newport Beach. Newport Beach is about 150 miles north of where he was found.

Aboard the Ruth Marie Terry ate a little food and felt asleep.

Although only a freshman at Huntington Beach High School the past year, Terry played first-string guard and center on the football team.

Terry's sobbing mother, Mrs. George McClelland, who has four other children, told reporters in Huntington Beach:

"I had been worried about the fishing trip, worrying about them going. My mother also mentioned yesterday that she was worried."

She said she gave Terry a signaling mirror before he left—"he knew the Morse code." He also took a Bible along.

"He is very active in church work and has a lot of faith in God," his mother said.

Hartman's daughter, Rosemary, 28, said the boy and the two men planned to be gone a month.

The Ruth Marie came upon the raft early Friday while nosing through fog off the Baja California, Mexico, coast.

The submarine USS Diodon, first craft to reach the Ruth Marie, put a hospital corpsman aboard. He examined young McClelland and said he was in good enough condition to be taken aboard the submarine.

Food Packaging Probe Ends

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three days of hearings on deceptive food packaging ended Friday with Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., saying they had shown the problem is more important to the public than "any of us had dreamed."

Hundreds of millions of dollars are spent in the nation's supermarkets every day they are open, he said, with an ever-increasing number of products prepackaged so that the consumer has to depend on the labeling for information about them.

Mary, hearing from the angel that she was to bear God's child, also learned from him that her cousin Elizabeth, an old woman, was pregnant with Christ's forerunner, John the Baptist. When she visited Elizabeth, the unborn John "leaped in (her) womb for joy."—Luke 1:26-44.

When Christ was 12 Mary and Joseph took Him to Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover. Missing Him on the return trip, they searched three days before they found Him in the temple midst learned men, studying "(His) Father's business."—Luke 2:42-50.

At a marriage feast in Cana, Mary reported to Jesus that something had become of the host's wine. She told the servants to follow her Son's bidding; He had them fill waterpots with water, which He then changed into wine. This was the beginning of Christ's miracles.—John 2:1-10.

One day as Christ preached, Mary and her other sons came and "stood without, desiring to speak with Him." He replied that the people He spoke to were equally important to Him, as His spiritual family.—Matthew 12:46-50.

Today's Lesson: Mary, Mother Of Jesus

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

IN the Third Quarter of this year's Sunday School lessons we shall study some of the personalities of the New Testament. The first of these is Mary, the mother of Christ. She is not necessarily, however, the most important.

As Wilbur Smith points out (in "Peloubet's Select Notes"), "there cannot be discovered in any single line of the Gospel records justification for the worship now accorded by (some) to Mary." She was the mother of Christ, yes; but she herself was not divine, and the Scriptures almost go out of their way to emphasize that fact.

Never does the Bible give her divine names or indicate in any way that she should be worshipped.

For example, in the scene where the disciples are assembled in the upper room praying (Acts 1:14), Mary is mentioned simply as one of the women.

On the other hand, as the mortal chosen by God to be Christ's mother, Mary is certainly worthy of study.

Chronologically in our lesson the Annunciation (Luke 1:26-38) comes first as a revelation of Mary's character. It is significant that God chose for His Son's mother not a wealthy woman, but one quite poor, and living in a town (Nazareth) known for its corruption. Even in such surroundings, the moral is suggested, one can walk in Godlike ways.

The angel tells Mary that she shall call her son Jesus, which is Greek for the Hebrew name, Joshua, meaning "Jehovah saves."

Next in chronological order comes the announcement made by the angel to Joseph about the divine birth, fulfilling the prophecy of Isaiah 7:14.

Luke continues to relate the birth of Jesus (2:1-7), the Magnificat of Mary (1:46-56), the Benedictus of Zacharias (1:68-79) and the Nunc Dimittis of Simeon (2:29-35)—all famous church music, the titles being taken from the first word of the Latin text in each case.

An interesting sidelight is the history and meaning of Bethlehem, where Jesus was born. The city first appears as early as Genesis 35:18-21, with the birth of Rachel's son, Benjamin and her death—already a place of birth and motherhood.

The name means "House of Bread"—significant in the light of the Communion—Bread—Christ.

Mary's offering of a "sacrifice according to . . . the law" (Luke 2:24) for Christ refers to the fact that every firstborn male belonged by right to God and therefore "had to be redeemed from service in the sanctuary by a payment . . ."

(Alfred Plummer in "Peloubet's Select Notes").

It was Christ's second visit to the temple, at age 12, that caused Mary alarm (Luke 2:40-52). How typically human is Mary's distress and rebuke when, after a frantic three-day search, she finds her lost Son studying in the temple, going "about (His) Father's business."

In the passage about the wine at the wedding (John 2:1-10) Mary shows her confidence in her Son by telling the servants to do His bidding. Jesus' treatment of His mother seems most harsh until it is realized that the address, "Woman," was not offensive in those days, as it is today.

The passage from Matthew (12:46-50) about Christ's ministry indicates that at that time Mary had not yet come to understand fully His mission. Influenced, no doubt, by her other sons, she tries to dissuade Jesus from becoming a religious fanatic.

By rebuking her, Christ tries to show her how important is His wider family.

Religious Guidance Lax In Business

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

Associated Press Religion Writer
Most American businessmen affirm that some generally accepted practices in their industries are unethical.

They, personally, don't like it. Most of them would appreciate more guidance from church leaders who understand business.

These conclusions came today from a broad national survey conducted by Rev. Raymond C. Baumbart, a Roman Catholic priest studying at Harvard University Business School. In it, 1,700 business executives answered questionnaires.

"Executives blame competitive pressure for widespread unethical behavior," he reports. He adds they would like to find remedies for the situation.

The 10,000-word study, one of the most detailed made of the modern businessman's individual attitudes, ideals, and conduct, and also of the moral climate in which he works, is being published in the current Harvard Business Review.

Personally, most executives "profess a lofty level of ethical aspirations for themselves," the survey found, but they "are cynical about the ethics of other executives," and concede malpractices in their own industries.

Four out of five executives admit and point out the presence of numerous generally accepted practices in their industry which they consider unethical, the report said. Among them, in order of those most frequently cited:

1. Gifts, gratuities, bribes and use of "call girls" to win favors or customers; 2. discriminatory and unfair pricing; 3. dishonest advertising; 4. unfair competitive practices, such as price-ripping between supplier and contractor, or exchange of contract-bidding information.

Individually, most executives disapprove of such practices, it was found. For example, 88 per cent regard providing "call girls" as always unethical; 86 per cent regard "padding expense accounts" as always unethical. Ninety-four per cent reject profit-making as the sole guide to business operations.

Most feel that when an executive "acts ethically," it is due mostly to his own character and "ability to resist pressure and temptation," but if he "acts unethically," it is largely because of his superiors and the climate of industry ethics."

The survey found most executives feel organized religion has been "lax in providing guidance" for business conduct. While some businessmen want no advice from the church in running their affairs, most would welcome competent counsel.

Ninety per cent of the executives voiced support for setting up industry-wide codes of ethical practices; 71 per cent believe such a code would improve standards; but 87 per cent believe it would be hard to enforce.

America Is Losing Its Aesthetic Value Of Nature

WESTCOVILLE — A stepped-up rate of urban living and the subsequent withdrawal from rural environments are causing Americans to lose the aesthetic value in nature, is the opinion of a Washington, D.C. youth leader.

Speaking at the 51st annual summer conference of Eastern Pennsylvania Seventh-day Adventists at Emmanuel Grove, Edmond M. Peterson declared that many problems are created by the move into the city.

"On the other hand," he continued, "many problems can be solved by re-locating millions of city-jammed Americans in a more rural area."

The speaker, secretary of youth activities of the Columbia Union Conference of Adventists, said that juvenile delinquency increases as the density of a city increases. Citing areas like New York City, Los Angeles, and Chicago, Peterson maintained that the best solution to the delinquency problems in the summer time is for groups to take young men (and women) out into nature and let them "live like human beings, not sardines."

"There is still a great deal of beauty left in the world, despite the scars left by sin," Peterson said.

Tonight at 7:30 p.m. the speaker will be Roland R. Hegsted, of Washington, D.C., associate secretary of the Religious Liberty department of the General Conference and editor of "Liberty" magazine.

Other speakers will include Francis David Nichol, of Takoma Park, Md., editor of the "Review and Herald," weekly newspaper for the Adventist denomination; and Gerald H. Minchin, of Washington, D.C., chairman of the department of Religion, Columbia College.

Directing the program for the Adventist conference is Arthur Kiesz, of Reading, President of the East Pennsylvania Conference of Adventists.

Congregations Pause To Consider Ministers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Congregationalists, busily preparing for their merger next week with the Evangelical and Reformed Church, paused Friday to consider the financial plight of retired ministers.

Some of them, reported William K. Newman, treasurer of the Congregational annuity fund, are struggling to live on annuities of $900 a year plus whatever other money they may have saved.

Inflation, he told the general council of the Congregational Christian Churches, is taking a terrible toll in the lives of retired ministers or their widows.

"All activities which the church has customarily applied to sin can be applied to the dread disease of inflation," Newman asserted.

He said many ministers were unable to build up substantial annuities because of low salaries they received—averaging less than $1,000 a year before World War I and less than $2,000 in the 1930s.

He reported that trustees of the annuity fund are now supplementing the small annuities that a 30-year minister receives, to assure that he will get at least $900 a year.

The Congregationalists and the E & R general synod, meeting separately, continued various actions to clear the way for adoption next week of their constitution under which they will become the

Salvation Army Sets Summer Plans

THE East Stroudsburg Corps Council met at the Citadel and made plans for a number of the summer activities.

The Daily Vacation Bible School usually held at the closing of the public schools was not scheduled for the usual dates due to the change in officer personnel at the local Corps. Plans have been set to hold the Bible School from 6 to 8 p.m. starting Monday, August 21, and continuing for two weeks.

This will follow all the camping and vacation periods and will open the fall and winter program at the local Corps.

The Sunday School and Vacation Bible School groups will unite for the annual picnic Saturday, August 16, with transportation provided for those who do not have their own cars.

William Vogler, who is in charge of the Sunday School, will make arrangements to transport those without cars to Rocky Glenn Park. Edward Reinheimer will make plans for the treats.

An emergency committee, to be responsible should any emergency arise while the Corps officers are on vacation, was set up and will be ready to give service if and when called upon. A schedule of services and responsible leaders were named to carry out the program during the absence of the Corps officers for three weeks during the summer.

Members of the Council present were Mrs. Alberta Gofus, Miss Shirley Counterman, Edward Reinheimer, William Vogler, Paul Walters, Chester Bogert and Major H. G. Baker.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Union Viewpoint

Chairman John L. McClellan of the Senate Investigation Subcommittee posed a pair of questions on union rights the other day, and got an evasive answer from a union official.

The senator was probing the slow-downs and shutdowns which threaten our defense and our position in the space race. The witness was Charles Tebbe, business agent of Local 259 of the Pipefitters at Daytona Beach, Fla., whose members work sporadically on missiles at Cape Canaveral.

Mr. Tebbe testified that the brothers usually just walked off the job when a non-union worker appeared on the scene, "on their own initiative."

He said this was in accord with unions' "right not to work with non-union people."

Opinions Of Other Editors

Clean-Shaven Corporate Image

Many corporations with far-flung activities find it good public relations to encourage their employees to take part in community affairs. Stanley E. Moore, night manager of the telegraph office in Pittsfield, Massachusetts, found a rather opposite reaction when he started to grow a beard for the city's bicentennial celebration.

Moore's superiors ordered him to shave off the beard and docked him five hours' pay. "We don't want one of our night managers looking like a beatnik," said Western Union.

Appeals by the telegraphers' union and the celebration committee to the top officials of the company could not save the whiskers—which had begun to look like the flowing spade beard of "How would you feel if the government took the position that hereafter nobody works on this base if he is a union member? Would you feel that was fair?" Sen. McClellan asked.

"No, sir," said Mr. Tebbe.

"But you want to operate the other way, don't you?" asked the Senator.

Mr. Tebbe didn't think it was all right to slow down the missile job, but didn't comment on the larger question. He has made it plain, though, that by and large he didn't believe anyone has a right to a job unless he sports a union button and pays dues to union bosses, and that unions have a right to deny all other people employment.

Non-union workers constitute more than 50 million working Americans, and Mr. Tebbe has let them know where they stand.

Samuel F. B. Morse, who invented telegraphy.

In Morse's time bankers in burn-sides and mutton chop whiskers would have harrumphed at the idea of trusting a young inventor with money if he had not sported a full beaver.

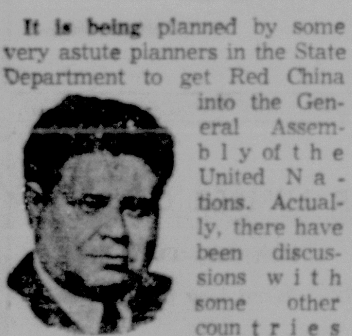

But a few generations later came the safety razor, and after that a group of Cuban guerrillas plus some Greenwich Village boys who would rather recite way-out poetry than wash — and whiskers began to suffer from guilt by association, even if grown in the interest of history.

If the corporate image must be clean shaven, a flicker of a grin at the corners of the mouth would help.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

A Bit Too Shy

It is being planned by some very astute planners in the State Department to get Red China into the General Assembly of the United Nations. Actually, there have been discussions with some other countries about the prospect of working out a Two Chinas scheme at the next session of the United Nations.

The astute planners do not expect Red China to accept what Mao Tse-tung would be an ignominious position. Red China wants China's permanent seat on the Security Council which would give to Red China the power of the veto.

It is very doubtful if Red China will settle for less. Certainly Mao Tse-tung would not agree to be limited to the General Assembly while Chiang Kai-shek's representative sits on the Security Council.

The scheme then is for the Western Powers to make this proposition to Red China; that Red China will inevitably reject the offer; that it will please India and the neutrals that the offer was made to Red China; it will leave Soviet Russia without an excuse for quarrelling over the issue; it would give Red China a bad reputation because Red China rejected the offer.

Of course, the Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa would lose face and its position throughout Asia would be reduced to a nullity. This does not bother the schemers who feel that they are important planners of mankind's future. They feel that Formosa ought to be happy that Red China is caught in a trap.

There is a tale of a great rabbi who travelled about delivering sermons on what is right and what is wrong. Men came from far and near to listen to the rabbi. One day, in a very small synagogue in a very small town, the rabbi was telling the townspeople what they should do and how they should live and everybody wondered at the enormous scholarship and the noble character of the rabbi.

However, there was a shoemaker in the very back seats, the shoemaker being regarded as an ignorant man who did not know this or that. Nevertheless, the shoemaker rose and said that he wanted to ask a question.

The congregation was in consternation. How dared a lowly shoemaker dare to ask the great rabbi a question? It was demanded that he sit down. The rabbi insisted that the shoemaker ask his question.

The shoemaker said: "I am an ignorant man who cannot read and cannot write and has never been to a school. Nevertheless, I have lived long and seen much. Therefore, I want to ask, 'Suppose it is just the opposite?'"

"How should I know?" answered the shoemaker. "I am ignorant. Nevertheless I ask, suppose everything is just the opposite?"

I could not help thinking of this story as the work of the State Department geniuses unfolded itself. What would happen to all this scheming and plotting and planning if Red China did accept a seat in the General Assembly ignoring the loss of face of not having the permanent seat on the Security Council?

What would happen if Marshal Chen Yi or Premier Chou En-lai came to the United Nations to turn the General Assembly into a brawl?

Inside You And Yours

Losing Control

By Burton H. Fern, M. D.
If alcohol doesn't stimulate, why was Jack dancing on the piano wearing a lamp shade after only a few drinks? Because you get a lift when your brain slows down. Spinal cord and brain resembles a one-corporation towering skyscraper.

Top executives enjoy large carpeted offices on the highest floor. Down below, workers operate the business under strict executive orders. Without directions, efficiency would disappear. Each worker might pull in a different direction.

Executive brain cells ordinarily control spinal cord activity. But when injury, illness or drugs—like alcohol—slow down these brain cells, control is lost. For no reason at all, you feel gay, giddy and excited.

Bashful Bruce becomes a loving Lothario; shy Susie turns into a torrid temptress. Tongue-tied at the first toast, you may expand into a Winston Churchill or Clarence Darrow.

Many drinkers swear that certain cocktails hit them faster than others. Perhaps! But alcohol's effects change with time, place and circumstance.

Empty Stomach Not Good
Even though you can tolerate a pint or so, a few drinks on an empty stomach may overwhelm you. In gay company, many people are sailing high before they touch the first drop.

If you keep drinking, alcohol slows down the rest of your nervous system and puts you to sleep.

However, cocktails can't replace the operating room's ether and gas. The amount that would be needed borders on a fatal dose.

And who wants to look forward to the morning after surgery, anyway?

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

The long Fourth of July weekend started last night at midnight and already more than a few have met death on the highways.

By Wednesday morning the count of highway traffic fatalities will probably go over the 500 mark. We hope none of Monroe County's citizens are among the deaths. In fact, we would so much like to say in a news story — "For the first time in the history of a long holiday weekend no fatalities were reported across the nation's highways."

However, we know this has as much chance of materializing as Bob Clark has playing third base for the Detroit Tigers. But we can help by driving carefully and taking more than just a passing interest in another driver's motoring habits. Not only do we have to be on the alert ourselves but we also have to think, many times, for the other individual behind the wheel.

We have heard many quotes on "Let's keep the Poconos Clean, Green and what have you." Now let's aim to keep the Poconos free of fatal accidents.

Nobody but YOU can make this come about.

William Leo Zubrod, 82 Fairview Ave., Mount Pocono, was honored recently by P. Ballantine & Sons, Newark, N.J. upon completing his 25th year in company service.

A service award was presented to Zubrod by Carl W. Badenhausen, president of the firm, together with a watch to commemorate the occasion.

Zubrod, a full-fledged member of the Quarter Century Club, regional sales manager, Central Atlantic Division, of the beverage company.

Four local people went west the other day at Cimarron City, Monticello, N.Y. They were Mrs. Earl Lesoinne, Edna Atto, Gloria Everitt and Donna Whitmore.

The Stroudsburg group went west all the way, visiting the Kit Carson animal farm, riding the Overland Express Stage Coach, and the North-west Railroad.

To make the visit more realistic the quartet were "held up" in Jesse James fashion.

During World War II the Government forbade any mention of weather conditions during radio broadcasts. That didn't stop old Dizzy Dean who interrupted his running commentary of a Cardinal game to observe, "The game's being held up, folks, and I ain't allowed to tell you why, but if you'll stick your head out of the window you'll find out for yourself!"

A Los Angeles sports writer, interviewing a hard-boiled young pitcher on the Dodgers squad, conceded, "You're a very tough hombre, all right. I bet you wouldn't give your own mother a decent pitch."

"Why should I?" countered the pitcher angrily. "She batted .297 last season at Sacramento!"

The Allen-Scott Report

Reds Menace Berlin

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington — The Communists are now threatening West Berlin with a new menace.

They have ringed the German metropolis with numerous ground-to-air missiles — comparable to the U.S. Army's Nike-Ajax, that carries a nuclear warhead and can knock the biggest and fastest bomber out of the air at upwards of 70,000 feet.

This latest sinister development is a double blow: (1) The Red's ring of ground-to-air missiles strikes directly at Allied plans to supply West Berlin by airlift in the event ground routes are barricaded. Virtually all contingency plans for the defense of the city contemplate an airlift. But with the Communists' newly installed ground-to-air missiles they are now in a position to also blockade the Allies' three air corridors to West Berlin.

(2) Largely offsets an outstanding Air Force achievement in perfecting equipment that would prevent the Reds from making these air corridors unusable by radar jamming. The Communists had planned to do that by installing extensive jamming devices. That is now ineffectual as a result of the Air Force's remarkable new equipment.

But the ring of ground-to-air missiles is a grimly different story.

That was ominously demonstrated by East German anti-aircraft units several weeks ago. They staged a series of target firings near the Allied air corridor that links West Berlin with Hamburg.

These announced practice firings were no hazard to that corridor. But they could readily be made so by slight shifts in range.

And the same applies to the other two Allied air corridors. All three can be speedily zoned in by the Red's deadly ring of ground-to-air missiles that are manned around the clock.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have submitted certain proposals for dealing with this new menace to General Maxwell Taylor, the President's new military assistant who is coordinating preparations for coping with a Berlin showdown. Taylor will probably go there shortly for an on-the-spot survey.

What Makes Dictators? — Senator J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the influential Foreign Relations Committee, raised a startling question about military aid during a closed-door hearing on the President's $4.8 billion foreign aid bill.

Defense Secretary McNamara and General Lyman Lemnitzer, head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, were testifying in favor of the huge measure and Fulbright asked them:

"Is it true that three of the countries which have received the largest amount of military aid, outside of Europe, have had military coups which have supplanted civilian governments and are now under what might be called military dictatorships? These three countries are Turkey, Pakistan and South Korea."

"Yes, that is correct," said General Lemnitzer.

"Then is there any relation," continued Fulbright, "between the volume of our military assistance and what happened in these countries? In other words, did our military aid induce or help these military take-overs?"

For a long moment, there was a deep silence in the committee room. Then Lemnitzer spoke up:

"I definitely do not think there is any relationship. I believe there were conditions in these countries which made the individuals involved feel they were doing the right thing. For example, in Pakistan, I think every authority will agree that under the leadership of President Agub Khan, tremendous advances have been made since he took over. There were very pronounced political and economic reasons for his doing that."

Secretary McNamara heartily seconded this contention.

"I would like to note several other points," he declared. "First, the military forces in these countries would have been powerful without our military aid; that is, powerful in relation to the other sources of power in those countries. Second, in Pakistan, the present regime is more democratically oriented than the previous political regime. Finally, if we had not provided military assistance to these three countries, there would have been dictatorships of other types, including Communist."

Noting that the two Pentagon leaders had not mentioned Korea, Senator Fulbright stated his committee was disturbed by recent dictatorship developments there.

"We have a report which states that American military aid corrupted Korea almost as much as it helped that country," said Fulbright. "What about that?"

"I cannot conceive of that," asserted McNamara. "I do not believe that our military aid corrupted Korea in any sense of the word. By that I do not mean there has not been mismanagement. That is now being corrected. However, I feel this report overemphasizes the corruption aspect."

"I would be the last to say there isn't some corruption in Korea," added General Lemnitzer. "But I agree wholly with Secretary McNamara that it is greatly exaggerated in the report before you. I think we can be proud of the results achieved in Korea. We kept that country from going behind the Iron Curtain."

"Would you comment on this statement in the report," asked Fulbright, reading as follows: "The revolt was in a sense a revolt against Korean girls standing outside Army billeting to sell their bodies to servicemen, hence the junta's drive against prostitution and dance halls, and the ban on the sale of foreign cigarettes and whisky." Would you say that was an accurate statement of conditions?"

"There may be a certain amount of validity to that statement," admitted Lemnitzer. "But it is minuscule compared to the main objectives of the revolution as I understand them. The Korean army wanted to tighten up the security of the country, and to strengthen its overall defenses and stability."

The Pennsylvania Story

Threat On Life

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook: Just five years ago yesterday the Federal-Aid Highway Act launching construction of the national system of Interstate and Defense Highways—a 41,000-mile network of expressways designed to meet the traffic needs of 1975 — was signed into law.

Of this 41,000 miles of Interstate super-highways, 1541 miles will be in Pennsylvania . . . What is the status of this program insofar as the Keystone State is concerned? . . . It's worth noting:

Of the 1541 miles in Pennsylvania, 596 miles are open to traffic . . . This includes incidentally, 362 miles of the Turnpike from Ohio to Bristol in Bucks County . . . At the present time, more than 110 miles of Pennsylvania's Interstate routes are under construction, with engineering and right-of-way progressing on nearly 350 miles.

Work on the remaining mileage is in the preliminary planning stage—and incidentally, the cost of completing the Interstate system in Pennsylvania is estimated at more than $1 billion $600 million.

Latest link on the Interstate system in the Keystone State scheduled for formal opening is 30 miles in Interstate 81 from the New York State line to traffic Route 107 in Lackawanna County—a section of the "Penn-Can Highway" . . . Dedication is expected sometime in August—with both Pennsylvania's Governor Lawrence and New York State's Governor Rockefeller slated to do the honors.

"When the Cat's Away . . ." — That some 70,000 state employees this weekend will have a long four-day July 4th weekend has no connection with the fact that the Governor is "out of town" and for the past week basing on the sands (literally, of course) of Hawaii!

Although the directive giving Capitol Hill workers Monday off was issued during Mr. Lawrence's absence by gubernatorial secretary Roy Schafer, it was done so with the full blessing of his excellency . . . Or, as one wag in the front office commented in testy good humor (whatever that might be): "No, it definitely was not one of those 'when-the-cat's-away-the-mice-will-play' affairs . . . The Governor is quite well acquainted with what goes on around here when he's away!"

Mr. Lawrence is due back by July 5 from the annual Governor's Conference being held this year in Hawaii . . . He left a week ago.

Background Sighs — Following President Eisenhower's gentle turn-down earlier this week of Republican suggestions that he run for U.S. Senator from Pennsylvania next year, a number of heavy-handed sighs could easily be heard in Democratic circles around Capitol Hill.

Earlier chit-chat that he might be persuaded to be a candidate had furrowed many a brow in donkey-riding ranks — the feeling being that Mr. Eisenhower would be one candidate Pennsylvania Democrats would have virtually no chance of beating, even in now heavily dominated Pennsylvania.

Quipped one heavy-breathing Democratic old pro following the Eisenhower pronouncement: "Why gad — like in the arena next year, with or without his putters, unquestionably would end up as a hole in one for the elephant herd which would leave us still puffing at about the number one green!"

Up Periscope! — Just to prove that they do a lot of "scratching" or doodling here on Capitol Hill, look at this order processed for payment by the State Auditor General for the Department of Property and Supplies, the state's purchasing agent: "scratch pads, etc., Harris Company, Harrisburg — $2118.08!"

The Great Northern Hotel's all-night beauty salon was the scene for a wild episode the other 4 a.m. A big-name movie star was chased into the street (with his head in curlers!) by an (ante-bellum . . . I hear Lover-boy Rubensohn is scooping the columns again . . . If the girls who ape Jackie Kennedy's hair-do would only imitate her dental-do — they might get more dates . . . Cosmopolitan phoned. Using the movie stars piece Nov. edition.

Insurance Lower Premiums For Safe Drivers

AS A RESULT of the "safe driver insurance plan" many Pennsylvania motorists convicted of the less serious moving traffic violations will escape payment of higher premiums for their automobile insurance.

Approved by Insurance Commissioner Francis R. Smith, the changes become effective today.

The changes were announced yesterday by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters and the National Automobile Underwriters Association, which introduced the plan in 1959 on behalf of their 230 affiliated companies.

Under the plan, the premium a motorist pays is dependent on points assessed against him for traffic violations and the number of points.

Eliminate Or Reduce

The changes in the plan will result in eliminating or reducing the number of points assigned against motorists for convictions of many types of moving traffic violations. Motorists who accumulate points under the revised plan will pay higher surcharges than in the past.

The NAUA announced statewide rate reduction for crash insurance amounting to 2.4 per cent. The NBCU also announced a statewide reduction of 15 per cent in premiums for medical coverage.

The principal changes involve the dropping of penalty points for running a red light, failure to observe a stop sign, illegal turn, illegal passing, and other similar offenses.

15 Per Cent Discount

With the new premiums, if a driver has no points, there is a 15 per cent discount off the basic premium, one point brings a five per cent discount, two points a 30 per cent surcharge, three points a 100 per cent surcharge, and four points a 150 per cent surcharge.

Employment In Poconos At 8,893

EMPLOYMENT in the Pocono labor market area reflected a net gain of 820 in the number of persons employed between March 15 and May 15, John P. Dougherty, manager of the local state employment office, reports yesterday.

Seventy-five area firms reported total employment in their establishments at 8,893. Nearly all the gain was centered in the hotel and resort industry.

Employment as reported by 33 of the area's largest manufacturing establishments showed a net gain of only 19 more than the March 15 report.

The total labor force for Monroe and Pike counties was estimated at 17,800 as of May 15 this year, with unemployment estimated at 950.

Since the May 15 report employment figures have developed, further manufacturing lay-offs have occurred in miscellaneous metal manufacturing and rubber and plastic industries. Worthington Mower Co. moving from the area at the end of August will increase this figure.

The number of job placements made by the local office increased greatly over the two-month period. A total of 388 placements were made during April and May, compared with 108 placements made during February and March.

Five Deeds Filed At Courthouse

FIVE DEEDS were filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeannette F. Batory, Monroe County register and recorder. Two of them totaled more than $41,000.

Jacob E. Seip, Mount Pocono, trading as Mountaintop Investment Co., sold to Elizabeth A. Seip, Mount Pocono a lot in the Borough of Mount Pocono for $15,000.

The second deed above $10,000 was filed by George C. and Christine M. Evan, Marshalls Creek, to Goddard and Ruth Du Bois, White Plains, N.Y., three lots in Smithfield Township for $26,930.

Other deeds filed were Pocono Summit Lakes Inc., Pocono Summit, to Edward J. and Barbara M. McGlade, Bethlehem, four lots in Coolbaugh Township; George K. and Kathryn W. Brands, Delaware Water Gap, to the Borough of Delaware Water Gap, two lots in Smithfield Township; Charles H. and Elizabeth and Ward A. and Margaret Davis, all of Scranton, to Berton E. and Eleanor V. Davis, Scranton, one lot in Coolbaugh Township.

The second smash-up happened as Vaughn was turning into a garage. The accident knocked the broken front end of the LaBar car apart and forced him to come to a halt, police say.

Stroudsburg Police were immediately, behind LaBar and took him to a Monroe County physician who examined him for drunken driving. He was committed to the Monroe County jail.

Yesterday morning at 10 a.m. he had a hearing before Justice of the Peace Floyd Kellogg, and pleaded to a drunken driving charge. He was recommitted to jail on $500 bail.

LaBar had his two sons in the car through the smash-spree. They are Edward, 13, and Charles, 11. Charles had a cut on his head before the accident, and it reopened during one of the collisions. He was treated by police first aid. Both boys were taken home.

The LaBar car was a total loss, damage was estimated at $175 to the Sheehan car, and at $125 to the Vaughn vehicle.

Practice Alarm For Firemen

FIRE Chief Clarence Strunk reported he sounded the fire alarm last night at 5:30 p.m. to summon East Stroudsburg firemen to the firehouse for two reasons:

The first was to check the alarm system and the time required for firemen to arrive at the firehouse, and secondly to have the firemen participate in activities of the company.

Motorist Goes On Spree, Collides With Two Cars

AN EAST Stroudsburg RD 2 motorist late Thursday night left a trail of broken glass and mangled fenders from the Five Points at Fifth and Main Sts., Stroudsburg to N. Ninth St. Here's the Stroudsburg police's version.

Herbert H. LaBar, 51, left a local tavern about 10:30 last night and backed onto Fifth St. from the rear of a taproom. He drove toward the intersection of Five Points and failed to negotiate the turn.

His 1952 Pontiac sedan rammed another Pontiac, a convertible, driven by Clare Keiper Sheehan, 37, of 268 N. Courtland St., in East Stroudsburg, as she was waiting at a stoplight.

LaBar backed up, hollered that he had insurance, and drove west on Main St. He was followed by a pick-up truck with two witnesses, and by the Stroudsburg Police, who had just arrived.

LaBar turned right at Ninth St., headed west at a high rate of speed, and smashed into a 1958 Chevrolet convertible operated by Charles F. Vaughn, 21, of 404 Crescent St., Stroudsburg.

The second smash-up happened as Vaughn was turning into a garage. The accident knocked the broken front end of the LaBar car apart and forced him to come to a halt, police say.

Stroudsburg Police were immediately, behind LaBar and took him to a Monroe County physician who examined him for drunken driving. He was committed to the Monroe County jail.

7th Street Bridge Opened

THE BARRIERS closing off Route 611 from Ann St. to Broad St. and Foxtown Hill were removed yesterday morning and traffic flowed over the Seventh St. bridge for the first time in almost six months.

The north side of the bridge surface is still rough and bumpy and workmen were finishing up the span yesterday afternoon.

The south side and its approaches are resurfaced with smooth asphalt.

The opening of the bridge will allow heavy Fourth of July traffic to be routed directly onto Main St. at Seventh as before. A last-minute rush was performed by bridge workmen to finish the span.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

I don't need a different treadmill—just different company to travel it with, I decided yesterday. No two eyes, looking at the same thing, see the same thing. Traveling the completed section of the Thru-way between East Stroudsburg and Water Gap alone, I had admired the banks, purple with clover (I thought) marveling at how fast it had grown.

Traveling the same road with Audrey Cohen, she called my attention to the fact that it wasn't clover at all, since it had sort of fern-like leaves and each separate blossom which forms the head is like a miniature sweet pea. And it doesn't smell, except as all green things smell.

So last night, chained to a dock where the heat lingered long after the sun had gone down, I started my own detective game. First I called Dottie Grant who has her own wildflower garden and described it. Sight-unseen, she thought it might be vetch or maybe the sensitive pea—both of which grow wild and tend to cover wasteland.

Then I thought of Mrs. A. Starr Phelps, who is not only horticulture chairman of the Garden Club but who also lives just back of the new road. Sure enough she's seen it—and had been using some of it in her arrangements. She had thought it was crown vetch but said Arthur Ifft had another name for it.

Sure enough, he did: Penn Gist vetch is what it is—a variety of vetch selected by Dr. Fred Grau when he was at Penn State, as a fast growing cover crop to hold soil.

Just what use I'll make of the information I don't know but the hunt enlivened a dull evening, gave me material for a column, and ever after I'll show off to visitors driving along the road—"Isn't Penn Gist a fetching vetch?" I'll say. And just think, I might have gone along for years admiring the clover.

The school has maintained a daily average of more than 300 children embraced in five departments. The school is operated under the auspices of the East Stroudsburg Ministerium under the auspices of the Protestant churches of the borough.

Wesleyan Guild Board Plans Programs

The executive board of the Wesleyan Service Guild met this week at the home of the president, Margaret MacLaren to plan the tentative program for the coming year. A poll was taken among the members at the last regular meeting to evaluate the whole year's program.

Among the suggestions was to have more outside speakers to add interest. The board therefore voted to invite speakers to four of the meetings. The remaining meetings will be conducted by guild members.

Following the same pattern, a different committee will present a study on a given topic at each meeting. Suggested topics are Latin America and the Church Background.

The next meeting of the program committee will be held in August.

Mrs. Maud Stem Honored At Class Supper

The Sunshine Class of the East Stroudsburg Church held their covered dish supper in the dining room of the church instead of at the playground with 60 in attendance. The invocation was given by Mrs. Harry Warrick.

The class teacher, Mrs. Maud Stem, was honored by the class which presented her with a birthday gift and a cake made in the form of an open Bible. Mrs. Stem shared the cake with those present. Among the guests were her son, Walter, and his family from Valley Stream, Long Island.

Hostesses for the supper were Mrs. Isabelle Leedom, Mrs. Chester Cramer, Mrs. Wilmer Moore, Mrs. Christine Albert and Miss Arlene West. The class will not meet again until September.

Uliana-Falcone Wedding Held At Roseto Church

Bangor—Miss Carmella Lillian Falcone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. Falcone, of 825 Pennsylvania Ave., Bangor, was married at a nuptial mass at 11 a. m. Saturday at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church, Roseto, to Angelo John Uliana, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Uliana, of 112 East Main St., Pen Argyl.

Rev. Eugene Davis, C. M., performed the ceremony. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza and re-embroidered Alencon lace fashioned with a portrait neckline, three-quarter sleeves and a paneled princess front. The bustle back ended in a chapel train. A crown of pearls and iridescent held her four-tier veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of glameillas and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Kathryn Falcone, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of Nile green taffeta and white lace with a matching cabbage rose headpiece with a face veil. She carried a cascade of yellow and pink glameillas. Angelo DeRo, of Delabole, was best man. Ushers were Theodore Stocker, of Bangor, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and George Uliana, of Pen Argyl, a nephew of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Lucy Ronco was organist and the male choir of the church sang.

After the reception at the Blue Valley Farm Show Buildings, the newlyweds left for a tour of the New England States. On their return they will live at 112 West Main St., Pen Argyl. The bride, a graduate of Bangor High School, is employed in the office of Bangor Clothing Co., Inc. The bridegroom attended Pen Argyl High School and served with the U. S. Army. He is employed by Anthony Dotta, painting contractor, Nazareth.

Some Tips For Fixing Up Your Home

Back Yard Provides Family Fun

AMERICANS in growing numbers are beginning to "get away from it all" simply by stepping outdoors into what used to be just the back yard. Today the difference is plain to see. The back yard has become a recreation area.

No matter what it's called, it is being used to increase warm weather fun and add entertainment space to the house. The ash can and the clothes line have given way to the swimming pool, the terrace and the outdoor grill.

These frequently become do-it-yourself projects for the whole family, and provide almost as much fun in the construction as in later enjoyment. Swimming pools, once envied by many and owned by few, bid fair to become as common as a second car. Individually designed pools can be tailored to fit any area. Improved construction techniques for standardized shapes and sizes have brought the cost of pools well within the average budget.

Wading Pools
Above ground wading pools of vinyl-impregnated nylon held rigid by sections of steel mesh are a reasonable compromise. They come in sizes up

Swimming Pools Cost Down

RIDE down any suburban street and you won't be aware of the change. But fly over the same area and you'll see what is happening. Carefully hidden behind fences and shrubbery, winking like emeralds and sapphires, are countless backyard swimming pools, a large percentage of them brand new. In all the years up to 1948 a mere 2500 home pools were built in the United States but in 1960 alone more than 45,000 were installed.

New Constructions
It has become possible for almost any homeowner who is regularly employed to have one, since pools which a few years ago cost $10,000 to $20,000 can now be had for less than the

THINNING ODORLESS PAINT
Don't make the error of thinning odorless paint with ordinary solvents such as turpentine. This only replaces the odor the manufacturer has gone to the trouble of removing. Instead, use the special odorless thinners available for such paints.

to thirty feet in diameter and four feet in depth, providing fun for grown-ups as well as children.

Patios or terraces of flagstone, concrete or tile are being used for entertainment areas that extend the serviceability of the indoor living room.

Enclosing the patio with roofing and screening can make it more private and impervious to summer insects. Low-key lighting, simple furniture and a few large plants, make the patio an ideal place for late dining or tv-viewing. An adjacent outdoor grill perks up appetites and simplifies meals.

Among the games that are being enjoyed in back yards are badminton, paddle tennis, volleyball, basketball, deck tennis, archery, horseshoes, croquet, darts, lawn bowling, shuffleboard, and variations on lawn golf.

All-Purpose Court
An ideal back yard set-up is an all-purpose, hard-surfaced court for such sports as paddle tennis, deck tennis, and junior volleyball. A shuffleboard court can be painted on almost any concrete driveway. Sand boxes are great fun for the very young. A suitably situated garage makes a fine backdrop for handball or for hanging a basketball hoop.

The golfer can devote an occasional hour at the end of the day to improving his "short game" with nothing more elaborate than a tin can sunk in the lawn. This may also serve as the focus for a "clock-golf" set up.

Croquet is enjoying a revival and requires only an expanse of reasonably smooth lawn. Additional bounce is being given outdoor sports by the sudden popularity of trampolines.

Imaginative Gardening
For gardening enthusiasts, with or without a green thumb, there is no limit to the extent the imagination or talents can reach. Rock gardens, splashy summer flowerers, bulbs and shrubs can be beautiful projects for warm weather enjoyment. A small section of the garden can be set aside for the children to cultivate or used to grow herbs.

At night, outdoor illumination is often practical for lawn games, and carefully placed hurricane lamps focused on flowering plants will add beauty.

A perimeter of high shrubs or a tall fence can provide privacy and a background for casual or formal landscaping and garden statuary to make the old yard a thing of constant beauty and pleasure.

New Outdoor Accessories

THERE have been many new wrinkles in outdoor accessories since the standard summer house with its latticed sides and center tea table was all the rage. The vogue for informal outdoor entertaining now means barbecue pits, outdoor activity centers, indoor-out-door gardens, and semi-permanent installations for outdoor serving.

The possibilities for these semi-permanent projects in most any yard are virtually endless. Sunshades offering protection from the elements — and a decorative flavor, too — are highly practical and lend themselves to design ingenuity on the part of the homeowner. They can be vertical or horizontal, or overhead, depending upon the kind of protection or decorative effect needed.

Fences can be made to perform a dozen different useful functions — from wind shield to privacy insurance. Other possible projects include such useful articles as cross-legged picnic tables, benches, lawn chairs, lounges, and specially designed "outdoor living kits" allowing safe out-of-door storage for utensils and tools used in such living.
